

The New York Times (1851–2006) with Index (1851–1993)

Start here for “all the news that’s fit to print”—and the key with which to find it quickly.

It may be known as “America’s newspaper,” but for more than a century, The New York Times has commanded an international readership. The world news and personal stories captured by this Pulitzer Prize-winning newspaper for more than 150 years are available online from ProQuest. And now, for the first time, the master key to unlocking this content—The New York Times Index—has been integrated with ProQuest’s user-friendly search technology to make it even easier for researchers to find relevant information quickly.

Through the digitized pages of The New York Times with Index, readers witness the arrival of immigrants to America’s shores and follow the establishment of neighborhoods and businesses. They experience the rise and fall of financial markets and mark the introduction of the mass-produced automobile, television, space travel, and medical innovations. They gain insight into the causes and effects of the Civil War in the 1800s, the “war to end all wars” in the 1900s, and the war on terrorism in this century. Using The New York Times with Index from ProQuest, casual readers, students, and information professionals alike discover a world of history at their fingertips.

Effective searches. Fast finds.

All ProQuest Historical Newspapers™ titles incorporate both basic and advanced search options to help users of all skill levels find desired information quickly. The New York Times with Index offers additional search tools, such as the “Topics” browse feature, which puts more than three million historical terms from The Index at the fingertips of researchers, and helps them quickly locate articles based on topic categories. These digitized terms accurately reflect the vocabulary and issues of the age. This database also allows users to target their searches by subject, location, person, or company/organization.

When search results from The New York Times with Index are returned and the user clicks “abstract,” the researcher will be able to view not only the standard information supplied by the ProQuest platform, but also the information supplied by The New York Times Index. This additional information includes topic headings for further exploration, The New York Times Index article summary, and the information’s print location (page and column). Additional search options also will appear in the “find more documents” section, enabling researchers to further expand their study, if desired.

The New York Times with Index

For more information or to sign up for a FREE TRIAL, call 800-521-0600 or visit <http://www.proquest.com> today.

Benefits of adding The New York Times Index.

If your library already subscribes to the historical New York Times, the addition of the Index will provide the following benefits:

- Digitization of the highly regarded print edition of The New York Times Index, fully integrated into the electronic historical New York Times, eases searching and retrieval.
- The digitized Index retains the vocabulary and flavor of the time an article was indexed.
- The Index enhances research capabilities by providing additional new search categories, and the “Topics” browse functionality that helps users quickly locate articles based on topic categories.
- A more robust search yields more precise results.
- The Index enables researchers to narrow a topic based on search results using subject terms.
- Users can link to additional articles with the same index terms for more information.
- Users can quickly link directly to articles, eliminating the multi-step process involved when using the print Index (i.e., look up topic, write down print location, find microfilm, scroll to right page).
- The digitized Index takes up no shelf space.

More to explore.

In addition to The New York Times with Index, ProQuest Historical Newspapers includes the following:

U.S. Titles

- The Atlanta Constitution (1868-1945)
- The Baltimore Sun (1837-1985)
- The Boston Globe (1872-1926)
- Chicago Tribune (1849-1986)
- The Christian Science Monitor (1908-1996)
- Detroit Free Press (1831-1922)
- The Hartford Courant (1764-1984)
- Los Angeles Times (1881-1986)
- New York Tribune (1841-1922)
- St. Louis Post-Dispatch (1874-1922)
- San Francisco Chronicle (1865-1922)
- The Wall Street Journal (1889-1992)
- Washington Post (1877-1993)

International Titles

- The Guardian (1821-2003) and The Observer (1791-2003)
- The Irish Times (1859-2008) and Weekly Irish Times (1876-1958)
- The Scotsman (1817-1950)

Black Newspapers

- Atlanta Daily World (1931-2003)
- The Baltimore Afro-American (1893-1988)
- Chicago Defender (1910-1975)
- Cleveland Call & Post (1934-1991)
- Los Angeles Sentinel (1934-2005)
- New York Amsterdam News (1922-1993)
- The Norfolk Journal and Guide (1921-2003)
- The Philadelphia Tribune (1912-2001)
- Pittsburgh Courier (1911-2002)

These newspapers are also cross-searchable with the American Periodicals Series Online™, American Periodicals from the Center for Research Libraries, ProQuest Historical Annual Reports™, and ProQuest Civil War Era.

ProQuest continues to add titles to its Historical Newspapers program, developing an online primary source database of over 25 million pages that enables readers to compare how news about major events is covered across continents and over time.

FOR MORE INFORMATION

To learn more or to sign up for a free trial, call 800-521-0600, ext. 3344; email pqsales@proquest.com; or visit www.proquest.com.