THE HENRI GAIDOZ FOLKLORE COLLECTION

NOW AVAILABLE EXCLUSIVELY IN UMI® MICROFORM FROM PROQUEST

From the holdings of the renowned Folklore Collection of the Indiana University Bloomington libraries, The Henri Gaidoz Folklore Collection presents a fascinating window into the state of folklore as a discipline at the turn of the 20th century.

A scholar's resources

The Collection represents the personal papers of Henri Gaidoz, a noted Folklore researcher who was a pioneer in establishing folklore as an important discipline.

Depth of content

More than 6,000 titles, primarily in French, such as: personal correspondence, research notes, monographs, and journal excerpts, many with Gaidoz' handwritten annotations—from the mid 19th to the early 20th centuries.

Wide appeal to researchers

Because the content is so rich, The Henri Gaidoz Folklore Collection will appeal not only to Folklore researchers, but also to scholars in French, History, Religion, Literature, Anthropology, and Philosophy.
